“Part country, part folk, part Tex-Mex and all Texas...It's a mixture that works. The disc sounds great.”

- Jim Beal, San Antonio Express-News

Glenn Allan and Kim Mackenzie have been delighting audiences in Texas and beyond with their magical harmonies, superb musicianship and intelligent songwriting. They blend elements of folk, country, blues and border sounds to create music as diverse as the Texas landscape from which it is drawn. Switching instruments as effortlessly as they trade vocals, they weave a rich tapestry of sound on guitars, fiddle, and mandolin. Their harmonies and stage interplay have been likened to Gram Parsons and Emmylou Harris.

Paradise, Texas is a state of mind, of life, of love. The Tex-Mex accordion of Grammy-winning Flaco Jimenez, complemented by the solid, swinging bass lines of fellow Texas Tornados/Doug Sahm alumnus Jack Barber, defines the border sound. The instrumental prowess and perfectly matched voices of Glenn and Kim make this collection of memorable songs—Paradise, Texas.
